

Part-5: Unleashing the power of Amazon ECS for platform teams

Is Template as a Service right for me?

Developers can get started quickly by consuming prebuilt templates

Application teams are exposed to (and could be running) the infrastructure

Platform teams can be scaled by only creating the templates, not operating the infrastructure

Resource required by a platform team to build and maintain an IDP

Enforcing standardization and best practices through infrastructure as code